THE ADVENTURE BEGINS!

HOYA HOYA BEAR NATION!

Are you ready to have some great times with your daughters? I know you are. Whether this will be your first year or your fifth year, we plan on making it one to remember. We will camp on the beach, in the mountains, by lakes and in the desert. We will visit mud caves, snorkel and kayak at an island, and sing, eat and laugh until you ache. The girls will run, swim, swing, slide, climb, shoot, throw, fish, bike, and splash more this year than most people ever get to do. Rest assured, this is like no regular summer camp. We will be right there with our daughter(s) the whole time building father-daughter bonds that will help us enjoy the good times more and weather the toughest things the future may throw at us.

Your daughter will learn many outdoor skills that will impress most avid outdoorsmen. More than this, they will build real life characteristics that will benefit them in everything they do. We teach and live by a code known as the 6 aims; simple rules to live by that will never steer you wrong. With this foundation there will be ample opportunities to build confidence, self-esteem, a sense of community, and eventual leadership traits. Simply put, Bear Nation will provide a platform for our girls to grow as a person in many positive ways, all while having a great time with their dads.

We have developed a long list of amazing sites available for our camping in Southern California over the years, and have chosen this year's venues from the best of these. We kick off our season at Del Mar Beach, where we not only get to play on the beach, but also have unique interaction with the Marine Corps hosts. We will also revisit Blair Valley, in Anza Borrego. This campout, off limits to the adventure program until last year, is at the top of the list of most enjoyable locations with amazing bouldering and wide open space. Our family camp takes us to the pristine mountain community of Lake Hemet. We finish the year off with a three-day adventure to beautiful Two Harbors on Catalina Island.

These times are precious, and you don't get a second chance. Mark your calendars and block off your time now. The adventure starts on September 23.
